UP GeMS GEOLOGY SUMMIT 2023: FREE WEBINAR, SPEECH AND ESSAY CONTESTS

To: Schools Division Superintendents
All Others Concerned

In its pursuit towards scholastic excellence and student involvement in environmental protection, the UP Geology Majors' Society (UP GeMS), an academic and environmental organization in the National Institute of Geological Sciences in UP Diliman, will be hosting the annual FREE Geology Summit with the theme "Orogenesis" on April 1-2, 2023. Its objective is to widen the students' horizon in the field of Earth Sciences through a photographic essay contest showcasing the participants' creativity in conveying relationship between man and nature, an impromptu speech contest on Anthropocene, and a three-part online webinar anchored on the development and relevance of geology as it traverses through time.

In light of the foregoing, all interested students and teachers from private and public Junior and Senior High Schools are invited and encouraged to participate in this nationwide event.

Detailed information on the manner of participation in the activities is meticulously discussed in the Primer which is found in the attached communication from the organizer. Last day of registration is on March 24, 2023.

Queries, clarifications and other concerns regarding the activities can be directly addressed to the Committee Head, Dew Xya Dela Rosa, through this contact number 09276698020 and email address at depxya@up.edu.ph

Immediate dissemination of this Advisory is desired.
