Policy Making In Practice Workshop

Lord Peter Lilley & Sir Henry Bellingham

Register Now & Save

Government Exchange would like to inform you the next virtual open course workshop on Policy Making in Practice will be delivered by our trainers alongside our distinguished speakers - directly to your computer, laptop or tablet on Tuesday 27th of February 2023.

Distinguished Speakers:

Lord Peter Lilley, Member of the House of Lords & former Shadow Chancellor of the Exchequer
Sir Henry Bellingham, Member of the House of Lords and former Foreign Office Minister Barbara Piotrowska, Lecturer in Public Policy, King's College London

Learners will develop practical skills in relation to the UK Parliamentary Process such as developing a policy project proposition and the challenges involved in creating new legislation. The session will analyse bodies such as the Office of the Parliamentary Counsel (OPC) that play a more practical role in the parliamentary process, and how legislation is drafted and presented to the different stakeholders. Learners will develop an understanding of a project's 'lifecycle', how to manage the development of a policy project, how to update and review policy implementation and the role of external influences.

Learning Outcomes

- Learn about the Policy Cycle, and how policy should be drafted, implemented and assessed
- Understand the role civil servants play in policy-making, and what best practice looks like
- Improve critical understanding of what qualities are important for policy making
- Gain insight into the challenges that new legislation often encounters
- Develop knowledge of how policy can be better implemented and updated
- Discuss the role that external influence have over policy-making
- Learn about policy drafting and the importance of clarity in policy objectives
- Receive case studies in common pitfalls in policy development, and explore how to avoid them

Standard Fee:

and fee for one place: £570 + VAT
